THE DISSENTERS

This is a good time to remember what happened to the dissenters which claimed there was too much Pollyanna thinking in the United States just before the climax of the depression.

They received credit for keeping their heads when the country seemed determined to lose its head.

Today, dissenting voices are carrying another tune. They are singing out that there are too many Jeremiahs at large. They are warning that it is just as silly to rush to the extreme of despondency now as it was to rush to the extreme of hopefulness in 1930.

There are, to be sure, plenty of things to be discouraged about today, but, say the dissenters, they are being overplayed, just as the encouraging things were overplayed at the beginning of the decade. The depression then might have been eased by more realism; the "recession" now could be eased by more realism.

The psychology of fear which marked America's rebound from the psychology of boundless confidence needs to be toned down. One extreme is as bad as the other.

LARGEST AND COSTLIEST

Tracing the financial history of the good ship Leviathan would be a morbid way to spend a rainy afternoon. When the British company which has bought the ship for $800,000 turns over the money, the sad story of Uncle Sam and the whale of the Atlantic will be finished.

Germany built the Leviathan for $10,000,000 and had no more than started to absorb its operating deficits when war broke out. The United States impounded the ship for the remainder of the war and used it to transport troops.

After the war the government spent $8,000,000 to get the boat back into condition, paid Germany a fat settlement, operated the "biggest ship afloat" at a loss, sold it at a loss, bought it back at a loss, again operated it at a loss and finally decided it would be cheaper just to forget the whole darned thing and let the boat rot.

The $800,000 it is worth now as scrap—if and when the government gets the money—will be the first profitable transaction the Leviathan ever was a part of—the old tub surely must hold the record as the world's largest white elephant.

MORE PORRIDGE, PLEASE

Another 10 percent increase in Ohio old age pensions—to cover the rise in the cost of living—further supports belief that the essence of social security legislation is political, rather than economical.

In other words, the policy established in social security laws is that elected officials thereafter will consider themselves directly responsible for all persons affected by the laws. As in the case of pensions for soldiers, the tendency inevitably is to seek more and more benefits for the vested minority, regardless of whether or not additional benefits can be justified by the condition of the public treasury.

Grover Cleveland, who made the observation that the people should support the government and that the government shouldn't be expected to support the people, placed his finger on a truth which is being repeated every time another social security law is placed on the books.

Maybe the Japanese Government doesn't care; but it is a fact nevertheless that some of the recent dodos its military men have been guilty of in dealing with Americans, have not endeared it to this country nor led to promote cordial trade relations.—Detroit Free Press.

Women's dresses are to be shorter this winter, and five women out of six don't like it. But if you think that five women out of six is a working majority in the world of fashion, you don't know much about women.—Houghton Line (Philadelphia).

Young Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin insists the two old political parties are out of date. As good a man as his father went himself out with that idea.—Jack Warwick in Toledo Blade.

Some of that tax-exempt property may get mad and demand the right to be placed on the tax duplicates.—Indianapolis News.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, December 9

A progressive, prosperous and pleasant day, with much of gain and gratification in business and private lives, is read from the dominant astral interventions. Elders and others in influential positions, property and important business or financial operations, all combine for profitable and pleasant denouements.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a happy, prosperous and progressive year, with property, business, finance and work flourishing. Elders and those in high places may render support and friendship.

A child born on this day may be capable, industrious, ambitious and should gain the friendly recognition of elders and important persons. Its amiable and happy disposition may contribute to its social and personal prestige.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—In the hurrah of glorified movie productions, the figures often most responsible for the achievements are little known outside the studio conference rooms. There is, for instance, the story editor who takes the first big step in reaching the grand finale.

For example: Jacob Wilk, story chief of a major company, was first to see the possibilities of the smashing Zola and Paster biographical type of film. He was the pioneer upon insistence that such delineations should not swerve one iota from the actual historical account.

The story editor lives and works in either Hollywood or New York. He must be an omnivorous reader and know that a "Gone With the Wind" or an "Anthony Adverse" will be a best seller almost as soon as the publishers. He must also know literary folk and how to approach them.

Julian Johnson, now retired, was, I believe, first of the story editors to make a conspicuous success, although he was little known outside literary circles. The story editor may make $100,000 a year, and several are so important they are big stockholders in their outfits.

Frank Case has received his advance check against writing his memoirs of the Algonquin, over which he has presided so long. Thus New York's literati will welcome a book to which it has long looked forward. Case, in becoming a full fledged author under his own name, emerges from an anonymity behind which he has long hidden. Under various pseudonyms he has contributed to newspaper columns and magazines and his daughter, Margaret Case Harriman, has become one of the leading magazine article writers of her day.

The Algonquin garnered a major share of its fame because its dining room was the setting for the Round Table, reputedly a group of the brighter writing boys who were simply too perfectly too-too with their cynicisms for the newest Dale Carnegie and who were not averse to back-scratching and log rolling. Case, with a shrewd eye for human magnets to celebrity, allowed the legend to expand. As a matter of fact, the Round Table occasionally had Woolcott, Benchley and Kaufman, but mostly the chairs were occupied by theatrical pressagents who somehow imagined this proximity gave them literary halo. Many writers have made the Algonquin a part of call—Rex Beach, Edna Ferber, Sinclair Lewis, Irvin Cobb and such—but its real and interesting history is entwined chiefly with the stage. The stage of John Drew, Ethel Barrymore, Constance Collier, Raymond Hitchcock and so many more of that ilk who made it their New York home.

Now and then it is fun to journey to Yorkville's bilious-fronted row of beer gardens on East 86th street. Especially at Max's, the Bavarian Bierstube. A number, like Max's, have recaptured the hoppy spirit and smell of Cincinnati's Over the Rhine. Waiters and orchestras are in Alpine array—short leather pants and Homburgs with feathers in the bands. And how they tootle the revered German waltzes, the leader jockeying the crowd into caroling the Schnitzelbaum song with all stops out. Among the waiters is always a yodeler to give a touch of realism. The best noodle soup in town is here. None beats the German soup makers. Then the Yorkville piece de resistance—pig knuckles with sauer kraut. Kraut that has that salty tang known to epicures as the "Teuton touch." And how those fat bull fiddlers can vroomp, vroomp, vroomp so that one begins to realize there is something to the big violin after all.

Soda elegance: The old 5-cent soda attains the pinnacle of pomp in a place to be opened in the fashionable 60's spang off Park avenue next spring. An old and decaying mansion is to be razed and on the site will be reared a white marble mosque—suggesting the Taj Mahal. The soda salon will be two stories high. The first will be given over entirely to an enormous soda fountain with tables and the soda will be tarified 40 cents a glass with some especially la-de-dah sundaes running as high as 60 cents. The second floor will feature a deluxe home dinner to be served at $4 week days and $5 Sundays.

From a news item: "This is the second pair of twins born to the mother who was formerly a telephone operator."

The wrong number again!

Camille Chautemps

Yvon Delbos

An optimistic note regarding the critical European situation was sounded by French officials, left to right, Premier Camille Chautemps and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, following a conference with British officials at No. 10 Downing Street in London. It was announced that their parley included a discussion of Germany's demands for restoration of her territories and reports were that Hitler's demands would probably receive serious consideration, indicating that Britain was influencing France to change its former determined stand against compromise.

VACCINATION

BECAUSE of the fear aroused by the occurrence of smallpox in certain parts of the country, I deem it wise to tell you something about it. I am glad to say that there has been no epidemic and the few cases reported are now completely under control.

The United States public health service and the various state health bureaus warn all health officials and physicians to continue their vigilance. It is unfortunate that most persons hold the mistaken idea that smallpox is a rare disease, rarely, if ever, encountered in this country.

Although the disease is most prevalent in communities and sections of the world where hygiene and preventive measures are not available, it is occasionally found in certain sections of North America. In fact, within the past decade sufficient cases have been discovered to reveal the necessity of added precautions against the disease. They indicate the continued need of vaccination.

It is impossible to predict when an individual will be exposed to smallpox. The disease is often brought into this country by travelers from other sections of the world. One never knows when he may have contact with it. Since it is possible definitely to guard against the disease and avoid getting it, every one should take the precaution of safety.

Simple Procedure

I refer to the simple procedure of vaccination. In some sections of the country vaccination is required by law. Children are not permitted to enter school unless they have had the advantage of this means of protection. Unfortunately, not all communities demand this precaution.

Adults require this protective treatment as well as children. Naturally, it is most unwise for those who reside or travel in sections of the country where the disease is prevalent to neglect this precaution. Everybody should be vaccinated and the treatment should

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XII

Lucy Lee felt a little sick with anticipation at what Clyde must be thinking of the way Pearl had treated him. Practically thrown him out of the house.... and now she was to go to the city.

"Yes, and what he doesn't know about motors you could put in a lot of eyes," Loring agreed. "Which is the reason I've been at work on my new plane. It's a special design and I told the manager I wanted Clyde to look right on the job until I was finished. The very first day I got with you out there I got your number, didn't I, Young Feller?"

"I reckon motors are about the only thing I do know," Clyde admitted. "That's why I got a job in the factory when I decided to go around California for a spell, instead of going back home." He looked at Lucy Lee and she knew the answer was meant for her. She was staying here because of a new plane?

"Pearl exclaimed. 'How thrilling! Do tell us all about it. Mr. Loring, I simply adore flying and some day I'm going to pilot my own ship just like Ruth Chatman does. It must be so exciting as a matter of strict accuracy, and loaded sky riding and the thrill of flying her own plane.'"

"I don't enter her head until the moment."

"The most exciting thing in the world," the actor replied. "My new car is a knock-out, isn't she, Clyde? A single motored five hundred and twenty-five horse power cooled amphibian."

"That means you can land on land or water, doesn't it?" Pearl asked.

"Yeah, and her landing speed is only two miles an hour. She takes at about a hundred and ten a hundred and fifty and she's about the prettiest baby in the air, isn't she, Clyde?"

"Vernon named it 'Pearl'." "Jeez, but this car is swell. Waiter, I'll take another load, if you've got some more."

"Tomorrow's headlines," Don Loring chuckled. "Bruce Loring Sauerkraut Fad. Wish I had a cabbage farm!"

Clyde and I are on our way to the city now," Loring went on with the enthusiasm of a small boy with a new red wagon. "I want to look at a new gadget we may have. Clyde put me next to it. And when I take off on my flying trip to Mexico at the end of this picture I'm working on, that gorilla is going with me if I have to kidnap him. He just talks like a motor like a mother to her baby and it understands. No kidding. He's terrific!"

"We always said Clyde was the best thing with engines, didn't we, Lucy Lee?" Pearl glanced at Clyde then went on without waiting for a reply. "You must come to the house often, now that you're staying in Hollywood, Clyde."

Ballet This Season Expected to Hit New High

Leonide Massine
Alexandra Danilova
Irina Baronova
Tatiana Riabouchinska

One of the most phenomenal "comebacks" in the history of fine arts has been that staged by the ballet. This season more than 100 cities will be given the chance to view the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe during its 30,000-mile American tour. It was predicted that the ballet was doomed several years ago when the death of Diaghileff ended the classical tradition of the old imperial Russian ballet. But since that time there has come into prominence a new generation of ballet stars, including David Lichine, Leonide Massine, Irina Baronova, Alexandra Danilova, Tatiana Riabouchinska and others who are carrying on with amazing success. It is estimated that the Monte Carlo company this season on its American tour will play to a gate of more than $1,500,000.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or slow, your stomach does not do its job. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, indigestion, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell and for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, re-lease them in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and the best part is, it is so safe. Ask a pharmacist for Bell's. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937.

THE DISSENTERS

This is a good time to remember what happened to the dissenters who claimed there was too much Pollyanna thinking in the United States just before the climax of the depression.

They received credit for keeping their heads when the country seemed determined to lose its head.

Today, dissenting voices are carrying another tune. They are singing out that there are too many Jeremiahs at large. They are warning that it is just as silly to rush to the extreme of despondency now as it was to rush to the extreme of hopefulness in 1930.

There are, to be sure, plenty of things to be discouraged about today, but, say the dissenters, they are being overplayed, just as the encouraging things were overplayed at the beginning of the decade. The depression then might have been eased by more realism; the "recession" now could be eased by more realism.

The psychology of fear which marked America's rebound from the psychology of boundless confidence needs to be toned down. One extreme is as bad as the other.

LARGEST AND COSTLIEST

Tracing the financial history of the good ship Leviathan would be a morbid way to spend a rainy afternoon. When the British company which has bought the ship for $800,000 turns over the money, the sad story of Uncle Sam and the whale of the Atlantic will be finished.

Germany built the Leviathan for $10,000,000 and had no more than started to absorb its operating deficits when war broke out. The United States impounded the ship for the remainder of the war and used it to transport troops.

After the war the government spent $8,000,000 to get the boat back into condition, paid Germany a fat settlement, operated the "biggest ship afloat" at a loss, sold it at a loss, bought it back at a loss, again operated it at a loss and finally decided it would be cheaper just to forget the whole darned thing and let the boat rot.

The $800,000 it is worth now as scrap—if and when the government gets the money—will be the first profitable transaction the Leviathan ever was a part of—the old tub surely must hold the record as the world's largest white elephant.

MORE PORRIDGE, PLEASE

Another 10 percent increase in Ohio old age pensions—to cover the rise in the cost of living—further supports belief that the essence of social security legislation is political, rather than economical.

In other words, the policy established in social security laws is that elected officials thereafter will consider themselves directly responsible for all persons affected by the laws. As in the case of pensions for soldiers, the tendency inevitably is to seek more and more benefits for the vested minority, regardless of whether or not additional benefits can be justified by the condition of the public treasury.

Grover Cleveland, who made the observation that the people should support the government and that the government shouldn't be expected to support the people, placed his finger on a truth which is being repeated every time another social security law is placed on the books.

Maybe the Japanese Government doesn't care; but it is a fact nevertheless that some of the recent dikes of its military men have been guilty of in dealing with Americans, have not endeared it to this country nor tend to promote cordial trade relations.—Detroit Free Press.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, December 9

A progressive, prosperous and pleasant day, with much of gain and gratification in business and private lives, is read from the dominant astral interventions. Elders and others in influential positions, property and important business or financial operations, all combine for profitable and pleasant developments.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a happy, prosperous and progressive year, with property, business, finance and work flourishing. Elders and those in high places may render support and friendship.

A child born on this day may be capable, industrious, ambitious and should gain the friendly recognition of elders and important persons. Its amiable and happy disposition may contribute to its social and personal prestige.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—In the hurrah of glorified movie productions, the figures often most responsible for the achievements are little known outside the studio conference rooms. There is, for instance, the story editor who takes the first big step in reaching the grand finale.

For example: Jacob Wilk, story chief of a major company, was first to see the possibilities of the smashing Zola and Pasteur biographical type of film. He was the pioneer upon insistence that such delineations should not swerve one iota from the actual historical account.

The story editor lives and works in either Hollywood or New York. He must be an omnivorous reader and know that a "Gone With the Wind" or an "Anthony Adverse" will be a best seller almost as soon as the publishers. He must also know literary folk and how to approach them.

Julian Johnson, now retired, was, I believe, first of the story editors to make a conspicuous success, although he was little known outside literary circles. The story editor may make $100,000 a year, and several are so important they are big stockholders in their outfits.

Frank Case has received his advance check against writing his memoirs of the Algonquin, over which he has presided so long. Thus New York's literati will welcome a book to which it has long looked forward. Case, in becoming a full fledged author under his own name, emerges from an anonymity behind which he has long hidden. Under various pseudonyms he has contributed to newspaper columns and magazines and his daughter, Margaret Case Harriman, has become one of the leading magazine article writers of her day.

The Algonquin garnered a major share of its fame because its dining room was the setting for the Round Table, reputedly a group of the brighter writing boys who were simply too perfectly too-too with their cynicisms for the newest Dale Carnegie and who were not averse to back-scratching and log rolling. Case, with a shrewd eye for human magnets to celebrity, allowed the legend to expand. As a matter of fact, the Round Table occasionally had Woolcott, Benchley and Kaufman, but mostly the chairs were occupied by theatrical pressagents who somehow imagined this proximity gave them literary halo. Many writers have made the Algonquin a port of call—Rex Beach, Edna Ferber, Sinclair Lewis, Irvin Cobb and such—but its real and interesting history is entwined chiefly with the stage. The stage of John Drew, Ethel Barrymore, Constance Collier, Raymond Hitchcock and so many more of that ilk who made it their New York home.

Now and then it is fun to journey to Yorkville's bilious-fronted row of beer gardens on East 88th street. Especially at Max's, the Bavarian beerstube. A number, like Max's, have recaptured the hoppy spirit and smell of Cincinnati's Over the Rhine. Waiters and orchestras are in Alpine array—short leather pants and Homburgs with feathers in the bands. And how they tootle the revered German waltzes, the leader jockeying the crowd into caroling the Schnitzelbaum song with all stops out. Among the waiters is always a yodeler to give a touch of realism. The best noodle soup in town is here. None beats the German soup makers. Then the Yorkville piece de resistance—pig knuckles with sauer kraut. Kraut that has that salty tang known to epicures as the "Teuton touch." And how those fat bull fiddlers can vroomp, vroomp, vroomp so that one begins to realize there is something to the big violin after all.

Soda elegance: The old 5-cent soda attains the pinnacle of pomp in a place to be opened in the fashionable 60's spang off Park avenue next spring. An old and decaying mansion is to be razed and on the site will be reared a white marble mosque—suggesting the Taj Mahal. The soda salon will be two stories high. The first will be given over entirely to an enormous soda fountain with tables and the soda will be tariffed 40 cents a glass with some especially la-de-dah sundaes running as high as 60 cents. The second floor will feature a deluxe home dinner to be served at $4 week days and $5 Sundays.

From a news item: "This is the second pair of twins born to the mother who was formerly a telephone operator."

The wrong number again!

After Franco-British Parley.

An optimistic note regarding the critical European situation was sounded by French officials, left to right, Premier Camille Chautemps and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, following a conference with British officials at No. 10 Downing Street in London. It was announced that their parley included a discussion of Germany's demands for restoration of her territories and reports were that Hitler's demands would probably receive serious consideration, indicating that Britain was influencing France to change its former determined stand against compromise.

VACCINATION

BECAUSE OF the fear aroused by the occurrence of smallpox in certain parts of the country, I deem it wise to tell you something about it. I am glad to say that there has been no epidemic and the few cases reported are now completely under control.

The United States public health service and the various state health bureaus warn all health officials and physicians to continue their vigilance. It is unfortunate that most persons hold the mistaken idea that smallpox is a rare disease, rarely, if ever, encountered in this country.

Although the disease is most prevalent in communities and sections of the world where hygiene and preventive measures are not available, it is occasionally found in certain sections of North America. In fact, within the past decade sufficient cases have been discovered to reveal the necessity of added precautions against the disease. They indicate the continued need of vaccination.

It is impossible to predict when an individual will be exposed to smallpox. The disease is often brought into this country by travelers from other sections of the world. One never knows when he may have contact with it. Since it is possible definitely to guard against the disease and avoid getting it, every one should take the precaution of safety.

Simple Procedure

I refer to the simple procedure of vaccination. In some sections of the country vaccination is required by law. Children are not permitted to enter school unless they have had the advantage of this means of protection. Unfortunately, not all communities demand this precaution.

Adults require this protective treatment as well as children. Naturally, it is most unwise for those who reside or travel in sections of the country where the disease is prevalent to neglect this precaution. Everybody should be vaccinated and the treatment should

Yule Party Enjoyed By Bible Class

A delightful Christmas party was enjoyed by members of the Three-B Bible class of the Baptist church and guests last evening at the home of Miss Ruth Kinney, Homewood ave.

Guests were Mrs. S. Talmage, Mrs. George Peterson and Mrs. Wilbur West. Mrs. R. B. Snyder, teacher of the class, was assistant hostess.

Misses Rebecca Snyder, Dorothy Whitcomb and Kathryn Courtney were appointed to have charge of the class charitable activities. The short business session was in charge of Miss Ruth Cosgrove, president.

Mrs. Snyder led devotions, reading the Christmas story as taken from the Bible. "The Origin of the Christmas Tree" was the topic for an interesting story by Mrs. Richard White. Mrs. West entertained with violin selections, playing a medley of Christmas carols. Walter Taylor, little brother of the hostess, sang several numbers.

Games were enjoyed during the social hour. Prizes went to Misses Esther Mohr, Mary Charleston and Mrs. West. Miss Snyder had charge of the games. Members exchanged Christmas gifts and enjoyed a fire-side caroling hour.

Lunch was served with holiday appointments. Yuletide decorations made the home attractive.

The place for the next meeting, Jan. 4, will be announced later.

Travelers Hear Talk By Missionary

Dr. Willis R. Hotchkiss, missionary in Africa for 40 years, and former pastor at the Friends church here for a short time, was the speaker at a meeting of the Travelers club Tuesday afternoon at the library.

Dr. Hotchkiss interestingly described the region, Kenya colony, as he found it when he began his work there in 1895. The region, situated just south of Ethiopia, was entirely a wilderness, with no roads, railroads, towns, white workers or missions. He described the vast improvements which have been accomplished in the last forty years through education and faith.

Also on the program was a book review, "Jungle Ways" by Seabrook, given by Mrs. A. H. Vaughn. The author recounted the story of his travels among native tribes of Africa and his observations of native life and custom. His travels were in the French African territory.

Musical entertainment was offered by the A. M. E. Zion ladies quartet. Selections were "Steel Away" and "I Couldn't Hear No One Praying", negro spirituals. A solo, "The Sun is Shining", was given by Miss Fletcher of Lisbon, member of the quartet.

Next week's meeting will feature a talk by Mrs. R. E. Smucker on "A Mediterranean Cruise". The tea will be served following the program.

Mrs. Fanny Little Heads W. R. C.

Mrs. Fanny Little was named new president of the Women's Relief Corps during a meeting held last night in G. A. R. hall.

Jurgens; chaplain, Mrs. Viola Oltip; conductress, Miss Nora Nease; guard, Mrs. Ed. Pults; delegate, Miss Phila Field; alternate, Mrs. G. H. Mounts.

The corps will meet again Dec. 21. Installation of new officers will be held Jan. 4.

Presbyterian Women Are Entertained

Miss Alberta Yengling and associate hostesses, Mrs. Eva H. Rury and Mrs. Agnes Collinson, entertained members of the March committee of the Presbyterian Women's association at the Yengling home on Tenth st., last evening.

Plans were made for a meeting Jan. 11 at the church. Hostesses at that time will be Miss Katherine Hole, Mrs. Helen Miles and Miss Edith Campbell.

The evening following the meeting was enjoyed informally.

Election Planned By Past Chiefs

Past Chiefs association of the Pythian Sisters will meet at 3 p. m. Thursday at the K. of P. hall to elect officers. A Christmas gift exchange will follow the meeting. Names of the year's "Pals" will be revealed at that time.

More Carriers and Clerks
Planned to Expedite
Service

Fragile and perishable articles should be marked as such and addresses should be on one side of the package only.

Patrons can speed outgoing mail by separating the local from the out-of-town mail, tying it separately.

One of the best recommendations is that of buying stamps in advance to avoid standing in line later.

Air-Mail Available

Special delivery air-mail to speed parcels going to distant points, costs only 16 cents an ounce. Greeting cards may be mailed for one and one-half cents an ounce if unsealed and no written messages inside.

No parcel may be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined, nor exceed 70 pounds in weight. Valuable mail should be registered or insured.

In connection with mail delivery, Postmaster Beardmore requests that citizens keep their sidewalks cleared of ice and snow so that the carrier's path to the mail box is unobstructed.

BORGWARDT TO ASK NEW TRIAL

Court Defers Second Degree Sentence Pending Filing of Motion

ly in the prosecutor's office at the conclusion of the case. She made no comment, however, on the verdict.

The jury light in the rear of the court room flashed at 2 p. m. Deputy sheriffs were hastily dispatched to the jail to bring Borgwardt to the court room. A jury hearing a civil case during the two-and-a-half hour deliberations was retired.

Just before Borgwardt was brought into the court room Judge Lones addressed the spectators asking them to avoid any demonstration after the reading of the verdict.

"This has been one of the most orderly audiences in my experience," the judge stated. "But I want to caution you against any demonstration in the court room."

Spectators followed the judge's injunction. But in the witness room offsetting the court room proper many of them thrived about the defendant congratulating him on escaping the electric chair and shaking his hand. The majority of them were women.

Five Ballots Taken

Five ballots were necessary before the jury reached a verdict. On the first ballot three of the jurors voted for the death penalty and five favored a not guilty verdict by reason of insanity. On the fourth ballot the count stood 11 for second degree murder and one for manslaughter.

Defense counsel indicated no further appeal would be made if Judge Lones rejects the motion for a new trial. In reply to the observation of a spectator to the effect that Borgwardt was "lucky," Atty. Charles Boyd of the defense replied, "I wouldn't say that a man convicted of second degree murder was lucky."

Prosecutor Karl Stouffer declined comment.

The trial opened November 28 when a jury of eight women and four men was selected to hear the case. Taken to the scene of the crime shortly after their selection, they returned to the court room and heard William Cranston Jr., son of the slain woman, describe the discovery of his mother's bullet riddled body when he returned from work.

Borgwardt shot and killed Mrs. Cranston as she lay reading in her first floor bed room the night of August 9. In a confession obtained the day following in the Alliance police station Borgwardt maintained he had shot his former mother-in-law because she was responsible for separating him and his wife. In his confession he described his movements on the night of the murder and stated he had thrown the shotgun, used in the killing, in Westville lake.

The gun was recovered under Borgwardt's direction and was accepted as evidence by the court. Other exhibits included a bullet riddled chair standing beside the bed, the window screen through which Borgwardt shot, his confession, and a shell box stolen from a neighboring farm with the shot gun.

S. N. Van Blaricom of Salem was elected jury foreman after the group retired.

Three Lettermen, Two Reserves On Quakers Varsity Quintet

LUTSCH, OLEXA, EVERHART ARE QUAKERS' VETS

Reserves From Last Season To Fill Two Starting Positions

A quintet of three lettermen and two reserves from last season's successful Salem High school basketball team is slated to get the starting call when the Quakers open their 1937-38 court campaign against Niles McKinley High on Friday night.

The starting five is expected to include Max Lutsch at center, Bill Schaeffer and Gilbert Everhart at guards and Ollie Olexa and either Jim Dickey or Amos Dunlap at forwards.

Lutsch, Everhart and Olexa are lettermen from last season's team which won 14 games and lost seven and advanced to the state finals in Columbus before losing out in tournament competition.

Schaeffer, Dickey and Dunlap were members of the 1936-37 Quaker reserve team, which won six games and lost eight. Schaeffer saw some experience with the varsity, breaking into the lineup for a small amount of action in 10 games.

Coach Herb Brown is uncertain about the starting assignment at the one forward position. Dickey and Dunlap have been showing up well in practice, although the former is bothered to some extent with several broken ribs which have not completely healed.

Dickey, who led the reserves in scoring last year, is the likely starter.

The most valuable player on the probable starting team is the six-foot, two-inch Lutsch, who kept the Quakers in many a game last season with his fine play under the backboards.

While not an exceptionally accurate shooter, Lutsch is worth all the tea in China to the Quakers when it comes to getting rebounds off the backboard.

Because the tip-off has been abolished this season, Lutsch's height will not be so valuable to the Quakers at the center position, but his tallness will come in mighty handy in helping the Quakers to gain possession of the ball on the rebounds.

Everhart and Olexa are both well-seasoned and capable of holding up their end of a fast break under the hoop, while Everhart does his best shooting from long range.

The Quakers' reserve strength this season hinges on two players, Leonard Borsall and Lester Knepp. Borsall is a transfer from Greenford and will probably see plenty of action after he fits himself into Brown's system of basketball and acquires the necessary smoothness. Knepp played with the reserves last season.

The new seamless and laceless ball will be used by the Quakers in their game with Niles. The players have been practicing with the new type oval and have experienced some difficulty in becoming familiar with it.

BUCKEYE QUINT TAKES OPENER

Ohio State Halts Final Rally by Marietta to Win, 29-23

(By Associated Press)

Ohio State university's cage quintet held cause to rejoice and take counsel following its 29-23 victory over Marietta college in the season's curtain-raiser.

State held a 14-6 advantage at half-time, but the Pioneers crowded the Bucks relentlessly down the home stretch at Marietta last night.

Marietta, paced by Forwards Magee and Whiting, came within a single point of knocking the count at 17, 19 and 21-point stages. The sharp-eyed Stafford, substitute forward, accounted for five points late in the contest to assure State of victory. Hull, forward, contributed the high individual total for the Bucks with six field goals and two free throws.

Chuck Chukovits, Ohio's scoring champion last season, hit a dizzy 24-point pace to lead Toledo university basketball to a 61-23 inaugural triumph over Bufton college at Toledo. Chukovits tallied 10 goals and four free shots. The Rockets led at half-time, 34 to 10.

At Findlay, Wilmington's cagers took an early lead to trounce Findlay, 41 to 31. Wilbur Weary, forward, accounted for a dozen of the victory's points. Wilmington's margin at the half was 17 to 12. Once in the second period, Findlay was within two points of tying the score.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Detroit fans are so indignant over the trade which sent Gerald Walker to Chicago the papers have had to expand their letters-to-the-editor departments.... Columns as far away as Lansing, Bay City and Jackson have taken up the cry and are blasting the deal for a fare-the-well.... Mickey Cochrane knows he stuck his chin out for him made Jimmy Dykes promise he wouldn't play Walker on the Sox' first trip to Detroit.... (But Dykes says he will.)

Joe Louis isn't so hot any more, but Detroit can claim all eleven places on the All-American panthers' team.... Tiger fans began to growl when Goose Goslin got the air.... They roared when there was talk of changing the name of Navin field to Briggs stadium.... Now they're on the loose and talking boycott.... But if we know our Detroiters they'll probably be right back out there breaking attendance records next season.

If you believe in omens, the Chicago Bears may get kicked all around the field when they play Washington next Sunday.... A large picture of Bronko Nagurski which adorned walls of the New York Giants offices crashed to the floor with a bang yesterday.... Headwriters on Cleveland papers like "em short and snappy.... One captioned an exhibition by Burper Danno O'Mahoney: "Danno is Flippo.... Little Davey O'Brien, the Texas Christian spark plug, was the only man to get a unanimous vote on Fordham's all-opponent team.

Old Strangler Lewis (He must be pushing 55) is wowing 'em in Paris.... A pup owned by Rick Ferrall, Washington catcher, won a Pointer Club of America stake down at Pinehurst the other day.

The Terry-McCarthy pipe incident caused big laughs everywhere except with the Jints, who took it seriously.... Coach Pancho Snyder said McCarthy had better not make any remarks about my pipe.... Any guy can manage a club stacked with Dickey, Gehrigs, etc."

In other matches, the Young Democrats won three games from Zimmerman Oldsmobiles; Douth's Service won two out of three from Mullins Manufacturers and Mullins Foremen took two out of three from the Masons.

The Colonial Billiards retained the lead in the City Duckpin league at the Grate Recreation alleys last night by taking two out of three games from its nearest rival, Pottery No. 1.

Increasing its lead in the National Bowling league, the first-place Salem News team knocked off the second-place Bunn's Shoes in three games at the Masonic temple last night.

Jim Jackson paced the News to its three wins with scores of 204, 188 and 220 for a 612 total. One of the News' victories was gained by a one-pin margin.

NATIONAL LOOP VOTES ON DEAD BALL FOR 1938

American League to Retain Present Ball For Next Year

BY PAUL MICKELSON

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—American leaguers will keep on their prime-rope path of happy customers and home runs for 1938 while their National League cousins go back to the old skin game of squeeze play, shorter hits and photo finish games.

A bit sore at each other's witfulness in the matter, the American leaguers voted yesterday to retain the old lively ball whereas the National leaguers, unblest by such home run hitters as Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Fox, decided to go back to the deader horsehide.

What the difference in the baseball will be is anybody's guess. One ball manufacturer said the American league ball would travel but a few feet farther than the National brand while another said the difference might be as much as 200 home runs for the Americans. In manufacture, the new National league sphere has a slightly heavier cover and five strands of thread instead of four.

Both league heads blamed the other for the split.

"We were in complete agreement to change the ball," explained President Ford Frick of the Nationals, "and the American leaguers suddenly backed out, leaving us with no other possible action but to go ahead with the deader ball."

"We were open to change but failed to find a new one that looked better for our purposes than the one we used last season," said American league President Will Harridge.

Both leagues meet in joint session today, final one of the annual convention, and there is a bare possibility the Nationals may relent and decide to use the old ball for another year.

A few major league pilots and club owners still hoped to swing a few last minute deals in the final hours of the deadest trading bee in years though none of them was willing to bet a pair of shoe-strips on it. Prosperity ruined the present ivory market.

FRANK RECEIVES HEISMAN TROPHY

Yale Star Named Outstanding Football Player of 1937 Season

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Clinton Edward Frank of Yale university and Evanston, Ill., today has tangible proof of the fact that he "has everything."

He has, first of all, the John W. Heisman Memorial trophy, awarded each year to the nation's outstanding all-around college football player. He has, further, place on virtually every All-American team.

And he has, in addition, the admiration and respect of each of the 1,000 guests who turned out at the Downtown Athletic club last night to hear Frank's praises sung and witness his acceptance of the handsome bronze statuette.

The unassuming poise that marked him throughout his two All-American campaigns was very much in evidence as he reached the tribune of a crowd that included football coaches and football stars of recent and long-gone years.

His acceptance speech—coming as it did after adjective-dripping tributes from such famed figures as Capt. Gar Davidson, Army's retiring coach; John "Shipwreck" Kelly of Kentucky and pro football fame; Ted Husing, Eddie Dooley and George Trevor, noted sports commentators; his own coach, Raymond E. "Ducky" Pond, and President Walter L. Conwell of the D. A. C., who made the presentation—was as calm and unaffected as the young man himself.

"Football has always been a sport, a game to me, and nothing more," he said. "I played it as such, and I leave it as such."

Ohio Gridders On All-Eastern Team

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—The list of players to represent the All-East football team, being assembled for the annual Shrine benefit East-West game at San Francisco, New Year's day, was boosted to 19 today, with the acceptance of six additional players.

Four of the new additions were from the Western conference. They are Gus Zetter, guard and Ralph Wolf, center from Ohio State, and Capt. Ray King, end and Lou Miller, guard of the Big Ten champions Minnesota. The others were Andy Farkes, halfback of Detroit, and Elmore Hackney, quarterback of Duke university.

Reject Proposal

KENT, Dec. 8.—Rejecting a proposal for renewal of severed athletic relations with Akron university, the Kent State university athletic board said in a statement to the campus publication today "if at the end of two years there is reason to believe Akron is maintaining satisfactory rules, the question of scheduling will be reopened."

When Service Director Frank Wilson put in his bid to city council Tuesday night for a flat-bed truck, Safety Director C. E. Donahay told the councilmen a new police cruiser was also needed.

Furthermore, Donahay offered Wilson the old patrol wagon, the "Black Maria," which, he explained, could be converted into a service truck. Purchased 10 years ago, and seldom used by the police department, the "wagon" has been driven only 1,200 miles.

The police cruiser, purchased a year ago, has been driven 20,000 miles, Donahay told council, and it is in bad condition.

Beatty Is Chairman Of Election Board

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 8.—Frank R. O'Hanlon, Republican, was elected clerk, and C. V. Beatty, Democrat, was chosen chairman in a reorganization of the Columbiana county board of elections last night.

O'Hanlon, a former deputy clerk, was named to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John W. Moore, clerk for 20 years, after Mrs. Genesta S. Barr of Lisbon, Republican, resigned the chairmanship. The chairman and clerk must be of opposite politics.

Beatty, who succeeded Mrs. Barr, is a building contractor and lumber dealer. James M. Gilgallon, Democrat and pottery worker, was appointed deputy clerk.

O'Hanlon is the first Republican named to the chief clerkship in 30 years.
